THREE DIE IN CRASH — In one of the worst accidents in Crawford County since May 1968, when five persons were killed on M-72 west, occurred last Tuesday, when three persons were killed in a two car crash at the intersection of Military and Fletcher Roads in Beaver Creek Township. Pronounced dead at the scene were two sisters, Mrs. Dorothy Skagerberg, 54, of Roscommon and Mrs. Margaret Spielmacher, 55, of Plainwell. Driver of the other vehicle involved, was Heather Ann Stribley, 22, of Mason, Mich. She was taken to Munson Hospital in Traverse City, where she died early Wednesday morning.

In a separate two car head-on collision on M-76, M-18, just north of the Roscommon-Crawford County line last Tuesday in which Mrs. Charlotte A. Monet, 46, of Washington, Mich., was killed, claimed its second victim when her son, John M. Monet, 20, of Sterling Heights, a passenger in the car she was driving, died at Munson Hospital in Traverse City early Wednesday evening. According to Crawford County Sheriff's officers, the Monet car collided with an auto driven by Theo Helms, 23, of Roscommon. He was treated at Mercy Hospital and released. Both accidents were policed by the Crawford County Sheriff's Department. (Roscommon Herald-News Photo)

Sales Record Set at Bear Archery in July

Bear Archery, Division Victor Comptometer Corporation, set a new sales record in the month of July when $1,080,000 worth of Bear products was shipped to dealers.

It is the first time Bear monthly sales have passed the million dollar mark since the company first opened its doors in 1933.

In making the announcement, Company President, Fred Bear, stated that passing the million dollar mark required a concerted effort by everyone in the plant. "In these days of lowering sales and buyer hesitancy, I feel that reaching this level is a great credit to all of our sales, production and office people," said Mr. Bear. "The mere packing and shipping of this amount of material constitutes a major effort," he added.

Commenting on the future, Mr. Bear said, "We have projected a million dollar month for August—traditionally always one of our best months. I fully expect we will make this projection."

Bear Archery employs 360 persons in Grayling and has eighteen District Managers and salesmen across the Continental United States.

CAMP GRAYLING — The 38th Infantry Division moved into its final week of annual field training as headquarters elements went to the field for tactical exercises.

Many units which had lived and trained in field areas during the first week were back in cantonment areas by the weekend. However, they are returning to field training sites during the day.

Exercises still center on platoon-level infantry operations, artillery practice firing and proficiency testing.

Maj. Gen. W. S. Ryan, deputy commanding general for reserve forces, Fifth U.S. Army, was scheduled to arrive Tuesday morning to observe the division's training capabilities. Also on Tuesday, Maj. Gen. Sylvester T. DeCorso, Adjutant General of Ohio, was to arrive for a one-day visit.

On Wednesday, Lt. Gen. William R. Peers, chief of reserve components for the Department of the Army, planned to begin a two-day stay at Camp Grayling.

Last Friday, history and heroism shared the spotlight at the annual review of the division, attended by military and civilian dignitaries and many Grayling area residents.

Governor Edgar D. Whitcomb headed the list of civilian dignitaries. Also present were Maj. Gen. Clarence C. Schnipke, Michigan Adjutant General; Brig. Gen. John N. Owens, Indiana Adjutant General, and Maj. Gen. Kenneth W. Brewer, 38th Division commanding general.

Several awards were given.

BITS O' TALK

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Johnson, Gary and Kathy attended a family picnic at the Lions Club park in Lewiston Wednesday evening. It was held in honor of Mrs. Johnson's mother's birthday and was attended by more than 60 people.

Top score in Tuesday's duplicate bridge game was won by Lucille and Chuck McNally. Margaret and Vic Anderson were second and Mary Cecil and Cathy Mason were third.

Mr. and Mrs. George Burke of Toledo, Ohio arrived Thursday, July 23 to visit their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Larson. On Friday, the Burkes and Larsons left for Iron Bridge, Canada, where they stayed at the cottage of another cousin, Marella Freehart at Bright Lake. On Sunday morning they left for Hawk Junction and chartered a sea plane and viewed the area from the air, returning to Grayling on Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Burke returned to Toledo Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Nolan and family of Grand Ledge spent the weekend visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Sales and Mrs. Pearl Nolan. George C. Frank, Jr. of Rocky River, Ohio, arrived Friday and spent the weekend at the H. Richard Snyder cottage at Lake Margrethe. Mrs. Frank and the children returned home with him on Sunday after spending several weeks here with her mother. Mr. Snyder also spent the weekend here, returning to Saginaw for the week.

Ole Eldh of Detroit and Ivar Lindval of California were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mangsen for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Libcke expected their daughter-in-law, Mrs. John H. Libcke, of Bloomfield Hills for the weekend. Her two daughters, Martha and Jane, are at Westminster Camp at Higgins Lake for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McEvers took their son, Mike, to Metropolitan Airport Friday, where he was to leave for New Jersey, then to California and back to Vietnam to finish his tour of duty.

Mrs. Dale Czuba and baby, Scott, were guests of honor at a shower given by Mrs. Leo Palmer at her home last Thursday evening. The baby, of course, was the center of attraction and received many lovely gifts. Mrs. Czuba and baby stayed at the home of her parents, the Junior Palmers, for a few days following their release from Mercy Hospital.

Where camping used to be something strictly for the hairy-chested boys who were content to sleep on a bed of balsam boughs or a busted-up bale of straw, such roughing-it has now largely given away to "smoothing-it."

The gals are responsible for those big motor homes wheeling along the highways, as well as the pickup campers and the luxury house trailers and folding tent trailers. Even those who still semi-rough-it in tents do so with folding cots, comfortable mattresses and plushy sleeping bags.

All of this happened because the wives decided they were tired of sitting home weekends while the lord and master went up north to chase trout or miss grouse. Before they would go along, though, the gals insisted on home comforts or something that reasonably passed for them. This was when the manufacturers wised up and the big recreational vehicle boom was on.

Haul one of these fancy rigs into a camping area nowadays and it is easy to forget you ever left home. Everything you could want is with you, including the whole family. Even the smallest of these rigs will sleep at least four, with some bedding down eight for a comfortable night's sleep.

If the weather turns chilly, just flip on the furnace. Come a hot spell and the air conditioner is ready and waiting. Indoor plumbing has even done away with the long wait in line at the park john and many even sport an indoor shower.

About the only place the little lady goofed when she was plotting to get in on all those weekend vacations was in the cooking department. Oh, sure, she has a fine stove with enough burners and an oven and a sink with hot and cold running water to take care of the dishes afterwards. Trouble is, that's the spot where her restful vacation sort of jumps the track.

She's working on that, too. With a fairly roomy gas refrigerator available, many a wife is stacking some of those complete TV dinners into the freezing compartment. No trick then to pop them in the oven until done, then slip them onto the table. Dishes don't have to be washed afterwards, either.

Yep, we would have to admit that the gals have done a pretty good job of infiltrating the formerly men's-only world of camping. They HAVE come a long way — but we don't see too many men complaining about this phase of it.

TURNABOUT

Folks used to wonder what Grandpa Brown and I had in common. He must have been close to eighty when I was just a kid. But I remember him as one of the best friends I ever had.

He was a wonderful old man, with a simple, native wisdom. We used to go fishing together, and he would talk to me about God and Faith and Love. I remember he said people shouldn't wait until they're in trouble before going to Church. "When you're happy," he told me, "take time out to offer a prayer of thanks."

The Church had acted as a balance for him during good times, and a bulwark during bad times.

Down through the centuries the Church has made great Christians out of unassuming people. They in turn have transmitted the blessings of the Church to oncoming generations. I hope I can bring Grandpa Brown's faith and wisdom to others, as I was impressed by him.

No More Theories Please

It now takes some $20 billion a year just to pay the interest on the federal debt, and the depreciating money of inflation continues as the prime national worry in the minds of most people in or out of government.

The leading practitioners of the "new economics", whose theories that major deficits in the federal budget weren't dangerous and that a little inflation was a good thing, have guided federal fiscal policy for 20 years. Their theories have been proven disastrously incorrect, and it is a little amusing to see some of them now coming forward with proposals for rigid price and wage controls to put the lid on the economic volcano of their own making. The nation is indeed fortunate that the present Administration has read its history books with enough attention to realize that it's time to get back to some fundamentals and that about the only thing wage and price controls do is cause a false sense of security, scarcities, black markets and further dislocation of the economic affairs of the nation.

Safety Afloat

The weeks of summer are upon us; and, in the warm days to come, tens of millions of people will find relaxation and enjoyment in, on or around the water. Some 42 million Americans will take to the water in small boats.

The National Director of the Red Cross Safety Programs has suggested a number of rules which should be observed by all individuals who operate small boats or plan to ride in them as passengers. Every boat should be equipped with such safety equipment as approved life jackets for every passenger, an anchor, extra line, fire extinguisher, tool kit and first aid kit. Boat operators should keep an eye on the weather and avoid the pitfalls of overpowering and overloading with passengers. A little forethought and care will make this summer afloat a happy and enjoyable one. Be prepared for every situation you can imagine and then be ready for the unexpected. Most important of all, if an emergency occurs — think, don't panic. This is the basic rule for a happy ending to every story of fun afloat.

W. O. HILDEBRAND ANSWERS A FEW QUESTIONS

First, so very many persons have asked me to please reconsider my proposal to the Zoning Commission to erect an all steel and glass Professional Building on my city block of property along the County Road across from the Cemetery, and have asked so many questions that I consider this method of response the easiest. This is not a "letter to the editor" but, instead, I am paying for this space at regular advertising rates.

The reason why I walked out of the Appeal Board Hearing attended by some twenty odd residential objectors and declared that I was finished with it was twofold. First, I knew that very few if any had full knowledge of what was proposed, or had even looked at the $890.00 architect's drawing on an easel at the front of the room, and secondly, I consider every person whom I know to be my friend and the heated, unfriendly atmosphere that was developing quickly brought my decision. At this point I want to compliment our good Mayor for his strong affirmative attitude and remarks.

What is the Crawford Investment Company? Nothing more or less than three words and three people. Linda Gibbons, the pleasant and capable cashier of the Grayling State Bank, receives and records for me the rents due on my dwellings. Whether my tenants have a checking account or not, this is a most convenient procedure for them. Secondly, Jack Alef, our bank President who is a complete manifestation of a sanguine inspiration with knowledge, business acumen, and inspiration in all matters affecting the City of Grayling, with whom I frequently discuss business matters. And thirdly, myself. I use the Crawford Investment Company to belong to and support the Chamber of Commerce and to support the Church Directory every week in the Avalanche.

Just a day or so ago a man asked me on the street, "Hildy, what are you trying to do, buy up all of the land along the North Down River Road and turn it into business property?" No, I have owned that city block free and clear for about three years and it was a mess. I let a family of very, very poor people with kids, old automobile junk and litter of all kinds, live there free of charge for several months until they could find a place to live out of town. Then, at considerable expense I had it cleaned up and today it actually is a pretty sight with a few spruce trees at one end.

Since I have recently purchased a house in Roscommon and am negotiating on another, both to be rebuilt for tenants, as I have done here, I am asked if I am giving up on Grayling. Well — yes and no. It is not difficult to become discouraged and disgusted with some of our local business people from whom I have purchased so very much in my rebuilding jobs and who exhibit absolutely no interest in the Professional Building Complex as a new source of tax revenue and new families in the community. Three stated to me that they had not even read the articles on the first page of the July 9 Avalanche on the subject. So I do not care to purchase any more property here with that kind of apathy among our business people.

But no, I have not and will not give up on Grayling. I have my permanent residence here, and even our cemetery lot; a host of fine friends; considerable property and we like to live here the year around. Our doctors and hospital here could not be better. Some speak of "loving care" rather facetiously. I do not. During my second heart attack and stroke in the middle of the night, the fine ambulance service from the Sheriff's department and the immediate careful attention by Doctors Henig and Blaha saved my life. Then several days of the most wonderful loving care at Mercy Hospital made me a new man. And finally, I never want to miss the fine services and sermons of Pastor Bob Haskel of St. John Lutheran Church.

My intentions here are sincere, and I am not attempting, nor am I getting rich, so to speak. Income taxes take care of that. In addition to the rent free house for a poor family as aforementioned, I let a poor family with children live in my house at 906 Park Street for one whole year rent free. Also, I purchased the beautiful steepled Lutheran Church at 606 Ionia Street and gave it outright to the Gray-Lee Judo Club, where some 30-50 boys and girls practice under strict rules two nights a week, and are off the streets.

As a further gesture of good will, on April 19 of this year, I gave to the State an ancient sawmill previously owned and carefully cared for by the elderly fine gentleman Mr. Ernest VanPatten, to be assembled and placed in a new glassed in building at the Hartwick Pines State Park for future generations to view. The Department of Natural Resources and the Management of the Park will soon be issuing wide publicity on this item which they seem to value very highly.

So — I do believe that my heart is in the right place, my intentions good and I hope that this clears up many questions.

Respectfully submitted

Now For Conventions

Michigan voters may have become wearied by all the electioneering leading up to the state-wide primary on Aug. 4, but that merely laid the groundwork for the real hard-nosed politicking ahead.

We refer to the state conventions of the two parties, where delegates will solemnly assemble, solemnly write a platform promising all sorts of things and decrying all sorts of other things, and solemnly round out their state-wide slates for the Nov. 6 general election.

The delegates get a chance to name their party's candidates for lieutenant governor, attorney general, secretary of state, Michigan supreme court, state board of education, and the governing boards of Michigan State University, Wayne State University, and University of Michigan.

The Democrats will convene Aug. 22 in Grand Rapids; the Republicans will meet Aug. 29 in Detroit.

These events will see a different type of politics than evidenced either in the primary or the general election—both of which also must exhibit different types of politicking.

Convention politics is something apart. Here, old friendships and old alliances and old favors called due become important. Here, past party service can be paramount. Here, a closely knit, closely coordinated, well-regulated handful of delegates, with proper leadership, can hold sway.

Or, a convention can be a jumbled, mixed up, disorganized, emotional, ill-fitted exercise in political frustration.

At the Democratic convention, two spots seem to hold the most interest—the nomination for secretary of state, to replace the retiring James M. Hare; and the two seats up for grabs on the Michigan supreme court.

The maneuvering already has been intense for the secretary of state's job. Probably the candidate most experienced in the ways of convention politics is Billie S. Farnum from Oakland county, who has been this route before, both as a behind-the-scenes power in the Williams era of Democratic dominance, and as a candidate himself. Farnum is a former deputy secretary of state, was elected as state auditor general, and was elected again as a congressman from the 19th district.

But there could be some legitimate question as to whether his power bases within convention politics are too old and rusted to be of complete service in 1970.

The branch managers of Michigan—the guys who sell the license plates on a patronage basis from the secretary of state—have pushed forward their own candidate, Charles F. Gray of Ypsilanti, who is a former state representative and whose wife runs the fee branch office in Livonia.

If the branch managers should coalesce effectively at the convention, Gray could well have the inside track for the nomination. And, since the roots of branch managers generally stem from the political arena, this is entirely possible.

A third avowed candidate is John F. McEwan, mayor of River Rouge. His political grassroots are mainly in Wayne county and the Downriver area, and at a Democratic convention, that's not necessarily bad.

Of course, even more candidates could emerge, including at least one Negro. The Democrats very likely could have at least one Negro in a top spot on their fall slate.

For the supreme court, a battle royal could develop, unless it is compromised ahead of time, with three of the best-known names in Democratic politics and one Negro already announced candidates for the two nominations available.

G. Mennen Williams and John B. Swainson, both former governors, are two of those seeking their party's nod. Former Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski, now chief judge of the state appeals court, is a third. The Negro is Robert Evans, a Records Court Judge in Detroit, where Swainson is a circuit judge.

Unless things are ironed out in advance, this could be one of the textbook convention contests in Michigan history.

At the Republican convention, Gov. Milliken took much of the fun out of it several months ago with his early announcement that he wanted for lieutenant governor James H. Brickley of Detroit, a former city councilman and now district attorney. At the time, Brickley said he would take the nomination but couldn't work for it.

The Republicans, too, will draft some lawyer to run against Frank Kelley, the Democrats' top man, for attorney general.

But the center of attention at the GOP meeting also will be the secretary of state position, with two members of the legislature—Sen. Emil Lockwood of Gratiot county and Rep. Weldon Yeager of Wayne county—already spending lots of time and some cash in trying to win the nomination.

Lockwood's political base has been mainly legislative in nature, which never has accounted for much when it came to hard-nosed convention politicking. However, Lockwood as his party's senate leader has been careful to court backing in high places outside of the legislature, and will be trying to bring this support to bear at the convention.

Yeager is no pushover, and may even logically be favored at this point. Yeager is a veteran of conventioneering, and has plenty of due bills to call in from his convention activities over the years where he has either led or been near the top of his Wayne county contingent at Republican conventions for many years. Yeager knows well how to play the convention game of politics; and although not too many Republicans get elected in Wayne county, the delegate strength from there at Republican conventions is still mighty potent.

If Milliken keeps his hands off this race, it, too, should provide some interesting lessons in convention politics.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

INVOLVEMENT
We hear much today about the word "involvement." American youth, challenging the traditional and the established, seek support by urging their peers to "become involved."

Whatever the individual attitude or disposition, successful living does not demand involvement so much as it requires participation. In a proper aspect, successful living blends participation and coexistence. We must participate in life, in the activities and events that shape the future of the small part of the world in which we live; but we must, in fairness, be tolerant in our attitude toward fellow human beings with whom we do not always see eye-to-eye. It's their world, too.

We should participate whenever our support is needed for a worthy cause or endeavor. The purpose of participation should be to improve and preserve what ever is good and worthwhile, or to build something new which will be of value.

Participation, in some form, is the price of your existence.

ABWA Meeting Held

The regular monthly meeting of the Grayling Chapter, American Business Women's Association was held on July 21 at the home of Lois Morningstar at Lake Margrethe. A good turnout of members and four guests were present for an interesting and timely program on Water Safety by Sgt. Robert Ruddy of the Sheriff's Dept. Marine Patrol.

The next meeting will be held at Dunk's Inn on August 18. Remember, be sure to call Laurie Kraus by Monday, Aug. 17, if you cannot attend.

FELDBAUSER REUNION

On Sunday, July 26, about 90 members of the Feldhauser family gathered together at the Hartwick Pines for their annual potluck family reunion.

This year's attendance was the largest yet. The Paul Feldhauser family were all present for the first time in years.

Ed Feldhauser received a gift from the group for being the oldest member present, 90 years young. There was also a grab bag for the children. Many pictures were taken and much visiting done.

For the first time in three years the sun shone on this family gathering and was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Virginia Von See and Mr. and Mrs. George Wiggins were in charge of the program this year. Miss Louise Feldhauser and Mr. and Mrs. Norm Feldhauser were elected to be in charge for the coming year.

"If It Fitz . . ." — There's No Prince, Chuck

By Jim Fitzgerald

The visit of Prince Charles and Princess Anne came just in time to make me remember the Kentucky Derby and the Indianapolis 500.

The thing is, I asked myself if anything in the world interested me less than British Royalty. And the answer was no, but the Derby and the 500 came close.

All horse races turn me off simply because no horse ever told me he liked running around with some guy sitting on him and hitting him with a stick. Actually, the "Sport of Kings" is simply legalized gambling, not much different than craps in Las Vegas. Eliminate the betting, and the race fans could all ride to the track in the same taxi.

As for car races, 'round and 'round they go and if no blood is spilled, it's a ho-hum day for the spectators. I can understand why grown men risk their lives playing with expensive toys on racetracks. It's thrilling and the wages are good. What puzzles me is why anyone would pay to watch. The only excitement is when cars are crumpled and bones are broken. If that's what turns you on, the seats are much cheaper alongside the freeway and the chances for gore and crash are much greater.

But back to royalty. The whole idea is repugnant to any thinking man. Why should a nation pay homage, not to mention hundreds of thousands of dollars, to a Prince Charles simply because his mother is Queen Elizabeth? It's fair enough for a kid to be born rich—if his dad or his grandad made the dough. But when it's the taxpayers who pay for the pomp and potatoes, a guy should do more than bleed purple to earn it.

However, if that's what they like in Britain, so be it. It's no bur on my throne. Except. Except when royalty comes calling in the U.S. and the whole country goes ga-ga learning how to curtsy properly. Nuts.

If Charlie and Annie showed up in my backyard I would bow from the waist only while closing the windows.

If this sound discourteous, I'm sorry. But I can't stomach the royal ground rules. Whenever the High and Mighty come calling, the White House repeatedly reminds the press and everyone else to keep their distance. We commoners are instructed to "speak only when spoken to and to address them only as Your Royal Highness." La de da. And they don't even pay their own motel bill.

I can shut my eyes and see Prince Charles visiting our Grand Canyon. He is posing for pictures and slowly backing toward the edge of the canyon. Dozens of people want to warn him of the danger. But none of the spectators can speak because they have not been spoken to.

Finally, one irreverent Irishman dares to open his mouth unbidden. But before he can get out "Hey, Your Royal Highness" it is too late. Down goes Charles.

"If I could have called him Chuck, he'd still be alive," the Irishman says.

District Court Action

Cases appearing before Judge Francis L. Walsh, in the 83rd District Court on Tuesday and Thursday of last week included:

Reed C. Larkin, 18, of Grayling pleaded guilty to a charge of use of Cannabis Sativa. He was sentenced to 20 days in jail and assessed $103.00 fine and cost or an additional 10 days. He was arrested July 1 by city police officers.

Roger Hawkins, 29, of Grayling, pleaded nolo contendere to an indecent or obscene language charge. He was assessed fine and costs of $33.

Glenn Kennell of St. Helen, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $103 or an additional 10 days following a plea of nolo contendere to a charge of entering without permission. He was arrested a year ago by Crawford County sheriff's officers.

Charles Budd, 39, of Grayling was found guilty to a charge of D.U.I.L. He paid fine and costs of $153. He was arrested by city police May 2.

Bruce Dean, 24, of Grayling, pleaded not guilty to a charge of illegal possession of deer. Trial is pending and he was released on bond of $50. He was arrested July 15 by conservation officers.

Three persons, Patricia Johnson, 22, Nancy Canfield, 18, of Grayling, and Kenneth Turner, 21, of Brahm, Minn. pleaded not guilty to charges of disorderly persons—indecent or obscene language in presence of women and children. Trial is pending, and they were released on $100 personal recognition bonds. They were arrested on July 26 by sheriff's department officers.

The case of Wayne M. Hayes, 23, of Grayling on a charge of rape was dismissed on motion of the prosecutor.

The year-end buy
three ways.

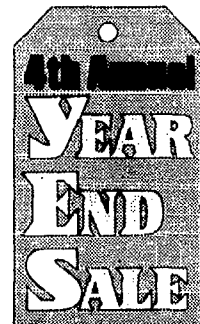

Cutlass S Holiday Coupe

1. You save big money when you buy it. The 4th Annual Year-End Sale is on now at your Oldsmobile dealer's—and the savings are substantial on every new Olds in his stock!

2. You save even more money as you drive it. Olds is famous for features that help keep costs down. Like Positive Valve Rotators in every V-8 for peak performance thousands of miles longer... rustproof inner fenders... aluminum exhaust system... bias-belted tires... many more!

3. You get a nice bonus at trade-in time. An Olds is a good investment—traditionally you get more of your dollars back when you're ready to trade the next time around.

If you think you can't afford an Oldsmobile...it's time to think again.

PICNIC POINTERS

When the weather is great and the mood relaxed, don't let the food spoil the picnic fun. Plan ahead to insure picnic success. Sandwiches will taste better if made on the spot.

You can refrigerate just the filling without having to keep the bread cool. This takes less room in the cooler. And the sandwiches will be fresher when each person makes his own.

Or, if you're tired of sandwiches, prepare a one dish meal at home. You can either keep the item hot, or cook it, then take it to the picnic site and reheat it.

To avoid the possibility of food poisoning, keep hot foods really hot and cold foods really cold. Carrots, celery sticks, green pepper sticks, green onions, tomatoes and cucumber slices make tasty additions to any meal - especially when it's a picnic. If you put them in a plastic bag with a few ice cubes, they'll be fresh and crisp when you're ready to eat them.

For dessert, plan foods that are easy to transport and eat - apples, cherries, oranges, bananas, pears, plums, melons. Cookies make tasty "go-withs" for fruit.

Aluminum foil and newspapers are indispensable for the picnics. Foil can be used for wrapping food items, for fashioning a temporary pan and for pan lids.

When you're washing dishes a crumpled ball of foil is a fine pan scratcher.

Newspapers are good for insulating either hot or cold items to help keep the temperature what you want. And newspapers under a tablecloth can smooth out a "rustic" table.

Above all don't forget the can opener, the big spoon or the knife to cut the buns. Take time before you go to check off all the things you'll need for the menu you've planned.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

We attended the meeting of land-owners in Roffee's Subdivision in regard to rezoning of one piece of property on North Down River Road. The proposal was presented for a very lovely building to be used for doctor and dental offices with off-street parking and lovely plants and shrubbery. The site is like an island and could enhance the whole neighborhood and also slow down fast-moving traffic on that road. Furthermore that whole road should have been zoned commercial long ago. It was quite surprising to find almost all landowners present resoundingly turned down the plan, which would not change the side streets in any manner except to gain better roads.

One of the reasons advanced was they want more homes built to bring in more taxes. The fact remains most of the existing homes in that area are not very prepossessing and many would hesitate to build any valuable structure there.

Clearly those attending the meeting had the upper hand and by times were less than mannerly and more than rude. When you have the hammer you don't have to pound your opponent over the head to prove you are the carpenter.

One spokesman wanted to know who voted for the plan so "they would know who their enemies were." This is a free country and there would be little sense to hold a meeting if a minority had to agree with the majority. We don't feel anybody was an enemy, just myopic.

Mr. Sorenson received criticism for "sneaking in with the Funeral Home." We hope more people sneak in with more fine buildings like that, but it's doubtful.

Grayling must grow but not by standing still. Everybody cannot insist "Let George do it, on the other end of town."

Camp Grayling Chapel Plans Progressing

building site of a new $120,000 chapel at Camp Grayling, Michigan and the check is one of the many contributions to the building fund from the Indiana National Guard.

The long time dream of Chaplain (LTC) Harold A. Kirchenbauer for a permanent chapel building at Camp Grayling is beginning to materialize and if everything moves ahead according to present plans, National Guardsmen will be worshipping in the new $120,000 structure next year.

All money for the chapel must come from private donations.

Chaplain (LTC) Ernest E. Thompson, Staff Chaplain for Indiana's 38th Infantry Division, met recently with Chaplain Kirchenbauer at Camp Grayling and agreed that the enthusiasm among the guardsmen from Michigan, Indiana and Ohio was "far beyond all expectations." The two chaplains met at the beautiful wooded hillside where the chapel will be constructed and discussed the spirit that will assure completion of the building.

Chaplain Thompson presented a check for $100 which was collected at Services of Headquarters Company of the 148th Infantry Battalion in Findlay, Ohio. Chaplain Kirchenbauer told of donations from individuals and units which seemed to be "far beyond the call of duty."

"Some units donated small amounts which represent money collected in the 'coffee fund.' An umpire at a softball game donated his official's fee."

A sizeable amount was donated during the encampment of Michigan and Ohio elements of the National Guard during the period 11-25 July from unit collections as well as Sunday church services.

Church services for National Guardsmen at Camp Grayling have always been held in a tent and the chaplain has the competition of passing trucks and the distant sound of artillery guns.

The base of the chapel will be constructed of rock. The huge stones, which will form the base, were donated by the city of Grayling after plans were abandoned to use them in the construction of a new city-county building. The stones are on the site and will add greatly to the beauty of the building.

The chapel will be a two-level A-frame style building. The back will have a movable glass wall which opens to an outside amphitheater situated on a hillside. The roof will be wood with rustic looking shingles. It will have 2,700 square feet of floor space and will seat about 180 guardsmen. The outside amphitheater will seat about 1,000 more. The lower level of the chapel will have three offices and a meeting room.

The chapel will be the spiritual center for about 30,000 guardsmen who visit Camp Grayling every summer.

New Legion Year Begins

Another year is beginning in the American Legion following the Department of Michigan 52nd Convention in Grand Rapids, Mich. the weekend of July 19-19, 1970.

As delegate from the Grayling Post #106, Alvin H. Moore, Judge Advocate and Post Service Officer and Eleanor S. Filley, Post Adjutant and 10th District Historian had the pleasure of voting on some very important matters concerning veterans and the American Legion.

Among them a resolution for the Department of Michigan to make a bid to the National American Legion to host the 1974 National Convention in the Detroit Area. This must be done four years in advance of the actual convention.

During the Department Convention the Annual Bivouac of Echelon 18, 20/4, Department of Michigan, Honor Society of Women Legionnaires was held and Eleanor S. Filley, a member of Grayling Post 106, was elected and installed as Director VIP. (Commander for the Department of Michigan 20/4.)

Director VIP Filley had the honor of presenting to the Vice Chairman, Menzo Chapman, American Legion Childrens Home Committee, a check in the amount of $100.00 from the Jeppetts of the Echelon during the Sunday general assembly.

Mrs. Alvin H. Moore attended as a delegate from Grayling Unit #106 Auxiliary.

Willard Bosserman, County Extension Director will be the recipient of a national award from the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

The award will be presented at the annual meeting of the group August 18 at Corvallis, Oregon.

He was one of three Extension agents in the United States to receive awards in the colored slide program. Other programs in which awards were given were: solo radio, single news photo, direct mail pieces, news column and feature news story.

Bosserman also won recognition in Michigan for his news column entry. The news column was about the pollution problem to the AuSable River in the summer of 1969 when the city of Grayling was making water and sewer line improvements.

Crawford County Recreational Activities

It's vacation time in Crawford County and the things to do and places to see are many and varied for our guests. Many hours can be spent visiting the Fred Bear Museum and the other attractions at Bear Mountain, such as Little Smokey Railroad, the SS Noralee, and the Circle D Riding Stable.

Hartwick Pines State Park is a must for every visitor, and at the Park is the Interpretive Center, the Lumber Museum, and nature trails that wind through the virgin White Pines.

There are Trout to see in the ponds of the Department of Natural Resources Research Station at the old fish hatchery.

Our area abounds in old ghost towns of the lumber era, and a trip north to Frederic to visit Deward and the Dedicated White Pine Stump area is worthwhile.

If you are a fisherman, we have excellent lake fishing on Lake Margrethe, Shupac Lake, Jones Lake, KP Lake, and many other smaller lakes that produce good catches of Bass, Bluegill, Perch, Walleyes, and Northern Pike. Of course, our area is famous for the trout fishing and the AuSable Main Stream, South Branch, North Branch, and Upper Manistee River are always good for nice catches of Browns, Rainbows, and Brooks.

Don't leave Grayling, the Canoe Capitol of the World, without taking advantage of the 200-miles of canoeing trails in Crawford County. Canoeing on the canoeing trails of the rivers can be made in two hours to several days meandering down the route of the Indians, fur traders, and lumbermen.
